SUICIDE OF REALTOR CLIMAXES BANK FAILURE IN ATLANTA

Ohio Publisher Shot Down For His War On Crime

THREAT ON LIFE OF DAN R. MELLETT IS FULFILLED TODAY

Five Bullets Bring An End To Career Of Newspaper Man

WARNING HAD BEEN GIVEN

Slayers Make Escape In An Automobile After Attack

(Associated Press)

CANTON, Ohio, July 16.—

Threats on the life of Dan R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, because of his activities against alleged gamblers were carried out here early today.

Five bullets brought to an end the career of the young publisher, who came here a year ago to publish The News, owned by James M. Cox, publisher of a number of Ohio papers.

Mellett was putting his automobile in the garage in the rear of his home, when the assassin's gun spoke. Neighbors who heard the shots immediately dashed for the garage, but Mellett was dead, a bullet through his left temple having ended his life, almost instantly.

The slayers had disappeared in an automobile which they parked about a block from the Mellett home.

That Mellett feared his life would be taken was evidenced for several weeks and as a result of the threat, a police guard had been stationed at the Mellett home. The policeman was off duty last night, however.

Neighbors reported seeing a suspicious automobile, bearing Pennsylvania license plates, in the vicinity of the Mellett home. A short time after the shooting, it had disappeared and no trace of it has been found.

Mellett, one of seven children, all in the newspaper business, came here from Akron, where he formerly was employed on the Akron Press. A brother, John, who writes magazine articles under the name of Johnathan Brooks, is secretary of the Indiana Traction Association, and another brother, Jess, formerly was mayor of Anderson, Ind.

His widow and four children survive.

Had the bullet which pierced Mellett's brain been an inch higher, it would have missed the publisher, who recently celebrated his 36th birthday. Members of the Mellett family had recently received several anonymous threats by telephone, according to the coroner.

"Several days ago, Mellett told friends he was convinced a plot had been laid for his assassination."

He emphasized that declaration by mentioning he had been told several out-of-town persons "were on his trail." To one of his business acquaintances, Mellett this week said he did not want to be pictured as squeamish, but that he was aware of sinister motives.

"I have more than a premonition," he said, to his confidant. "It comes in a form of a warning that is almost direct."

Active For Law

COLUMBUS, O., July 16.—Murder of Dan R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News early today brought to light here the young publisher's activities in efforts to put down crime in his city.

Mellett conferred July 7 with Governor Donahoe on the crime situation there, at which time, according to Secretary J. A. Meekstroth, he assumed sole responsibility for the confinement in the state penitentiary of Harry Turner and Harry Bouklis, who had been convicted of perjury in grand

NEW AGREEMENT IS SIGNED FOR SHOALS POWER SALES

Alabama Power Company Purchases Current From Wilson Dam—Contract Lasts To December 1st.

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The new agreement, signed last night by Alabama Power company representatives and army engineers for renewed purchase of hydro-electric power, generated at the Wilson Dam, Muscle Shoals, was approved formally today by Secretary Davis of the war department.

As approved the contract provides that the power company shall utilize Muscle Shoals power without restriction, until December 1 and may, thereafter, be terminated by either party upon 30 days notice.

Details of the new arrangement, as announced by Secretary Davis, show that the company shall pay two mills per kilowatt hour when hydro-electric power is substituted for steam power from the Gorgas plant; three mills when substituted for Gadsden plant power and four mills when substituted for steam power from nitrate plant number two.

It is provided further that when the Alabama Power company exports power to other power companies the cost will be at the rate of two mills per kilowatt hour.

The Alabama Power company is obligated during the tenure of the contract to give preference to the use of hydro-electric power over steam power.

Under the original agreement between the engineers and the power company, the government received $110,000 for power generated at Muscle Shoals during the month of July.

To illustrate the increase in price of power, provided for in the new agreement, engineers explained today that the government would have received $145,000 for the June consumption instead of $119,000.

BENNETT J. DOTY GETS EIGHT YEARS

"Just As Well Hang Him," Mother Says Of The Verdict

(Associated Press)

BEIRUT, Syria, July 16.—Bennett J. Doty, of Memphis, Tenn., was condemned by a court martial at Damascus today to eight years imprisonment at hard labor for deserting from the French foreign legion, in which he enlisted under the name of "Gilbert Clare."

An officer, representing the government as prosecutor, demanded the death penalty. Lieutenant Gallifer, for the defense, eloquently described the brave conduct of Doty prior to his defection.

This conduct, he pointed out, had gained Doty the Croix de Guerre and he asked that the court grant a suspended sentence. The hearing established "abandonment of post before armed rebels."

The judgment of the court martial declared this offense was proved, but it allowed extenuating circumstances.

BILOXI, Miss., July 16.—"They might as well hang him, or shoot him," declared Mrs. Lemuel H. Doty, mother of Bennett J. Doty today when told of her son's sentence for alleged desertion.

"He won't be worth much when he gets out after associating so long with the horrible type of prisoners on that island," Mrs. Doty added, however, that she does not yet believe that the sentence is final.

"Perhaps they passed such a severe sentence," she said, "to be an example for other men of the legion. I think they will pardon him later."

Grabs Rope and Hands Are Burned

Annie Brooks, employee of the A. Z. Bailey Grocery company at Cullman, is recovering from an extremely painful injury to her hands suffered Tuesday when she caught hold of an elevator rope, in an effort to stop the descent of the elevator.

Mr. Brooks was lowering a loaded elevator from the third story of the grocery plant, it was stated, when he realized that the lift had gotten beyond control. In an effort to stop it, he grabbed the ropes, both hands being burned and the flesh torn.

PATTERSON WILL SPEAK SATURDAY

Banker To Introduce Morgan Candidate at Gadsden

(Associated Press)

Despite his physical condition and against the advice of physicians, J. B. Wadsworth, president of the Etowah Trust and Savings bank at Gadsden will introduce A. G. Patterson, Morgan's candidate for governor, when the latter speaks in Gadsden Saturday. Mr. Wadsworth explained that he was so much concerned over the governor's race and was so anxious to have an opportunity to tell his friends "in what high esteem" he holds Mr. Patterson, that he felt his attendance at the Patterson rally was worth the risk.

Elaborate plans are being made by the Patterson boosters in Etowah county for the Saturday meeting and it was regarded as likely Mr. Patterson will be greeted by one of the largest crowds he has yet addressed during the campaign.

HIGHWAY IS OPEN NORTH OF ATHENS

Splendid Gravel Road Built All Way To Tennessee Line

The Bee Line highway now is open southward from the Tennessee state line to Athens.

The state highway department is completing the construction of a splendid gravel road from Ardmore to Athens and the highway now is in excellent condition. The detours have been eliminated and the highway is open all the way.

The state of Tennessee is paving the unpaved sections of the Bee Line highway between Pulaski and Columbia, to connect with the paving from Ardmore to Pulaski.

Filling Station Bought By Officer

The Highland Service Station, in the southern part of Hartselle on the Bee Line highway, has been purchased by W. H. Higgins, Hartselle traffic officer. Mr. Higgins will change the name of the station to the Highway Filling Station. He will continue his duties as traffic officer, planning to use the stations as headquarters.

TWENTY-ONE GIVEN TREATMENT UNTIL NOON AT THE CLINIC

Major Cases To Be Cared For This Afternoon

PHYSICIANS ARE AIDING IN WORK

Gratitude Expressed By Many Who Take Treatment

Twenty-one children and adults had been given free treatment at the Morgan County Health department until noon today as the Kiwanis clinic wound its way into the second day of service to the indigents of Morgan County.

The entire morning at the department was spent in handling the crowd of people from all sections of the county who had registered at the Y. M. C. A. and had been sent to the unit rooms where Dr. Higginbotham, Louisville, specialist of the Solomon clinic, gave of his professional skill free of charge to the endless chain of patients.

Half a dozen major cases, sent to the Benevolent hospital will be cared for this afternoon at the hospital, that institution having offered all facilities in connection with the clinic. Dr. Orville Miller will care for the cases sent to the hospital.

Dr. J. J. Solomon, head of the Louisville clinic, is making all examinations at the Y. M. C. A., registration headquarters, then directing the cases either to the health department, or to the hospital, if the cases need attention.

Physicians over the county have co-operated with the Kiwanis club in bringing numbers of patients from their various sections; patients not financially able to have operations performed on themselves or their children.

Many expressions of gratitude were heard among the county people and from people within the cities for the efforts the Kiwanis club has put forth in making the clinic available for their bodily needs.

Fiddlers Will Meet Saturday

The Flint Fiddlers contest is scheduled for Saturday night at Flint, Ala., for the benefit of the school. It was stated today that fiddlers from four counties will be entered in the contests, contestants from Morgan, Cullman, Limestone and Winston counties being expected. Contests will be held at the school building. From 20 to 30 will enter the contest.

MORGAN MAN TALKS OF FIGHT

Brands Withdrawal Talk As Being Propaganda

With little more than three weeks separating the people of Alabama from knowledge that the fight for A. G. Patterson, Morgan candidate for governor, has been won, Mr. Patterson today expressed continued confidence in winning the nomination.

In a personal interview, Mr. Patterson declared today, "Undoubtedly my candidacy is gaining by leaps and bounds. I am absolutely confident of winning the nomination if my friends continue their activities. Various rumors regarding the withdrawal of Patterson from the race were put out as propaganda, in which the wish was father to the thought. Patterson's real friends have known from the beginning that he was not a quitter, and that he never abandoned a race in his life, that he is in the race to win and that the prospects are very flattering for his success."

Strong squadrons of speakers are being sent out over Morgan, Limestone, Marshall and Lauderdale counties in the coming week and the plan to carry a last minute fight, sustaining the real opening of the governor's campaign a little more than sixty days ago when thousands of voters fell from other ranks into the Patterson majority, will be worked successfully in all North Alabama counties where one of the heaviest votes is polled in the state.

Charles Rountree, Patterson's Morgan campaign manager, is personally supervising the arrangement for speaking engagements in the various North Alabama counties and it is likely that many of the speakers will be sent from Morgan into the other counties, Morgan having lined up solidly for the home candidate.

The confidence expressed by Mr. Patterson in his chances to win on August 10 is likewise found among his campaign leaders who realize that while the fight is not won, that Patterson's chances have improved in meteoric fashion within the past few weeks.

Leaders expressed the belief today that as the campaign nears the closing days that people have been

And the English king was far from the fight, galloping to the rear, long before it was stopped.

WERT EXPRESSES HIS CONFIDENCE

Morgan Candidate Is of Opinion Race In Good Shape

Judge Thomas W. Wert, Morgan candidate for attorney-general, expressed confidence today in the outcome of his race on August 10, feeling that the efforts of his friends have placed him in a position of commanding in the race at this time. Judge Wert's majorities in North Alabama counties will be enormous, according to expressions from those friendly toward his campaign.

The Morgan candidate is pressing his candidacy in various parts of the state and wherever he is heard he convinces the people that he is the man for the position.

The record of the former Morgan county court official is being talked strongly by his friends and will have a direct bearing upon the result of the race, it was pointed out by friends. Judge Wert served as a judge in this county, meting justice fearlessly.

Boys Are Getting Along with Survey

Six Albany-Decatur boys are doing well in the compilation of the census and milk survey of these cities, it was stated today by J. W. The young men are having considerable difficulty in locating people at their homes, but on second or third trips are receiving cordial attention from Albany-Decatur housewives.

Bessemer Forms Patterson Club

"Bessemer for Patterson" is the slogan of the Patterson club, just organized in that Jefferson County city, following the parade through there of Patterson supporters from North Alabama. A number of citizens of that place joined in the parade when it reached the city.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS TO BE EXPLAINED

Markers Expected To Arrive In a Short Time

Traffic signals in the city of Albany will be explained to the public upon the arrival of markers here within a short time, it was stated today at the Albany city hall. Markers have been ordered and bill of lading received, but some delay has been occasioned in the entire shipment, only a portion of the order having arrived.

Majority of the signals will order the drivers of vehicles to slow down, two markers ordering motorists to stop have been placed at the intersection of Holly street and Second avenue and another at the intersection of an alleyway with Moulton street, between 1st and 2nd avenues.

No arrests have been made for traffic violations it was pointed out today and the traffic regulations will be made known as soon as the markers are placed.

BANK CLOSES

An automobile, belonging to H. The car was unoccupied. About 10:45 o'clock this morning, it began moving from its parking space, backed downhill, passed two other machines parked nearby, and backed into the curbing just below the alley between Moulton and Holly streets. The car was not damaged.

PRESIDENT SMITH OF REALTY BOARD TAKES OWN LIFE

Servant Finds Body In Morningside Home Near Atlanta

LOAD OF SHOT HITS ABDOMEN

Another Florida Bank Fails To Open Its Doors Today

(Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., July 16.—J. R. Smith, president of the Atlanta Real Estate Board and a director of the Bankers Trust company, for which a receivership was designated in federal district court yesterday, shot and killed himself at his home in Morningside, a sub-division here early today.

The body was found by a servant attracted to the scene by the sound of the shot. The door of Mr. Smith's room was locked and the servant broke it down with an axe. His daughter, Mrs. Julia Linsey, was among the first to reach the body.

Mr. Smith was dead when found, the entire load of the shotgun having entered his abdomen.

Belief was expressed that he fired the shot with his toe. Several letters were found beside the body. They were turned over to the coroner, who announced an inquest probably would be held later in the day.

Mr. Smith was a former member of the realty firm of G. I. Smith and W. S. Rankin company. Later he had been connected with the Sylvan Hills and Morningside development projects. In addition to having been a director of the Bankers Trust company, he also was a director of the Farmers and Traders bank of Atlanta, which closed early this week.

The suicide came as a climax to the bankruptcy proceedings of the Bankers Trust company and the closing of 83 banks, many of which were members of a chain of 120 in Georgia and Florida, for which the Bankers Trust company served as financing agent. Thirteen banks of the 83 were closed today.

Petition for a receivership was brought several days ago in superior court here, where a board of receivers was designated and a temporary injunction granted restraining officers of the company from altering in any manner the status of the banks.

The petition was brought by the Bank of Umatilla, Fla.

Yesterday federal court assumed jurisdiction of the case, acting upon the plea of four Atlanta creditors. Former Governor Hugh M. Dorsey and J. K. Ottley, president of the Fourth National bank, were named receivers for the company. Many other banks which closed were said by the state banking department only to have temporarily ceased business pending re-organizing and re-arrangement of financing plans, after the bankruptcy proceedings of their fiscal agent.

HONOLULU—With automobile congestion increasing month by month on the famous "Pali road" highway engineers in this city are investigating the practicability and cost of boring a tunnel through the Koolau mountains and thus uniting the windward and leeward sides of the island of Oahu.

Interest in the windward side of the island, especially the beach place at Waimanalo, and Kailua, as residential districts, has been the chief cause for this sudden increase in travel over the single mountain pass known as the Pali. During the last year, automobile travel over this mountain road has increased two or three hundred percent. The drive to the Pali from Honolulu is over a wide boulevard that engineering skill has made almost free from curves, but once past the gap and descending the precipitous windward side, the road becomes a narrow ribbon of concrete with just room for two cars to pass, and sharp turns follow one another in amazing rapidity.

Owing to the steep sides of the mountain ridge in the vicinity of Manoa valley, it is estimated that a tunnel of comparatively short length would be possible at this point and the cost should not be too great to make it a subject of practical consideration.

Hawaii National Park will have a model, low-priced public camp, similar to those in operation in other national parks, according to the terms of the lease which the Inter-Department has granted the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company. The present lease by this company expires in the middle of next year and the execution of a new lease has just been authorized by the Interior Department. One of the terms of the agreement requires the Inter-Island to establish a recreation camp with facilities for vacationists at a moderate rate.

The light to be installed by the Federal lighthouse service on the new Aloha tower in Honolulu harbor will be visible from a distance of 19 miles out at sea on an arc of 180 degrees facing the sea and spreading from Diamond Head on one side to Barber's Point on the other. It will be 5500 candle power with a two second flash every three seconds. With its installation, the old light at Sand Island, which, with the growth of the city has been more and more confused with other lights in the vicinity, will be abandoned and the keeper will be transferred to the powerful station near the leper settlement on Molokai Island.

Robert P. Lewis, a member of an old Hawaiian family, recently left here for Russia, where he hopes to locate the beautiful Hawaiian feather cloaks which were presented to Kamehameha I and other chiefs to various Russian visitors to Hawaii. He will also investigate those said to be in the Berlin museum, the gift of Kamehameha III to King William of Prussia about 1820.

The famous stamp collection of the late William Walters of this territory, which was left by the Walters will to the city of Bremen Germany and was rejected by that municipality, will be sold at public auction in New York City next October. In his will, Walters devised his collection to the Bremen museum and set aside a bequest of $5,000, income of which was to be used for the care of the collection. The museum authorities state in declining the gift that the amount thus allowed for the care of the collection is entirely inadequate. After the collection has been officially rejected, the territorial supreme court issued an order directing that it be sold by the administrators.

Heavy summer travel to the Hawaiian Islands is indicated by reports from mainland travel agencies received by the Hawaii Tourist Bureau. An advertising campaign carried on by the bureau during the past two years is apparently responsible for the large increase in summer visitors.

Poor Little $200,000,000 Heiress—Hubby Earns $200 a Month

MULTI-MILLION-HEIRESS, Ailsa Mellon Bruce, Daughter of the Immensely Wealthy Secretary of the Treasury, Whose Husband Earns $200 a Month.

If you were the daughter of the second richest man in the world, and married a man who earned $2,400 a year, would you live on that salary?

They told such a story on "poor" Ailsa Mellon, who some day will inherit $200,000,000, and who the other day became the bride of young David K. Este Bruce, a consular officer with a salary of $200 a month. The smart set of Washington, where Ailsa's tremendously rich father is Secretary of the Treasury, shed a few crocodile tears over her reputed prospects for economy. Then her friends' sense of humor asserted itself and they laughed.

The heiress to the Mellon millions probably spends $2,400 a year in shoes and stockings—to say nothing of tailored suits, evening gowns, afternoon frocks, wraps, lingerie and what-not. The future home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce is one of the most palatial residences in Rome.

In the six years she has been in Washington, during which time she has been the hostess for her father, Ailsa Mellon acquired the reputation of being the best-dressed member of her set. With it all there has been no ostentatious display of wealth—merely expensive things in good taste. Her frocks, most of them, have come from a single smart shop in Paris, known the world over for its exclusiveness and its prices. A conservative estimate of Ailsa's expenditures for clothes has placed it between $12,000 and $15,000 a year, a sum that is comparatively insignificant considering the fact that she will some day inherit, with her brother Paul, the Mellon fortune of $400,000,000. The Bruces are not precisely poor, either.

The sum that the beautiful Ailsa was credited as spending for clothes was neither the smallest nor the largest expended by the members of Washington's smart set. The salary of a Senator or a Representative, for instance, is $10,000 a year, and many of them live on it. On the other hand, there are such senatorial folk as the Gerrys and the Couzens. Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry, wife of the Senator from Rhode Island, was when they were married in London some months ago, both parties to the contract permanently abandoned any fear of the wolf at the door. Senator James Couzens of Michigan received a check for something like $40,000,000 when the Fords bought him out.

Five candidates for the state legislature are out on the highways and byways of this good county carrying their banners to the fore. They are going in a body to each point of voting strength in this county and telling the people just what they believe in and just what they stand for, what the people can expect when they go to the state legislature.

The idea of "stumping" is as old as politics, it's farther back than newspapers and was of greater use when the columns of newspapers were not available, but even now it lends flavor to the political races, stirs interest among the voters and will no doubt serve to bring a number out to vote who had not thought of their rights as American citizens seriously.

With the legislative candidates whooping 'em up all over the county and Bill Brandon and Andrew Patterson scheduled to make addresses in this county a little later, Morgan bids fair to poll her largest vote.

ANDREWS GOES TO GREAT BRITAIN TO HELP IN PROHI DRIVE

General Lincoln C. Andrews, dry enforcement chief of the United States, is in England on a mission of friendliness and in behalf of law enforcement. He is trying to gain the co-operation of the English in stamping out the rum runners. His request is not in the least unusual though it may seem a bit out of the ordinary to British brewers. Andrews is asking nothing more of Britain than Britain would ask were American customs interfering with English made laws. It is not doubtful that the English will agree to aid Andrews in his latest dry move. Andrews has been given the money to fight his battle with, there is no reason apparent why he can not be able to uphold the Volstead act. Public opinion of course is going to have a great deal to do with the effectiveness of the law in this nation, but Uncle Sam is going to expect the chief of prohi forces to produce the goods or resign his office. Naturally he will choose to put forth his best effort and the English favor to this country will go a long way toward helping him.

AT THE PRESENT TIME THE INDUSTRIAL SITUATION

Everybody in these cities has an ear to the ground listening for a far eastern rumble, hoping that the rumble will bring with it a large manufacturing concern to the Twin Cities, a plant that is sorely needed if it does nothing more than take care of the unemployed in the section.

As the industrial situation stands at present there is little to be said that has not already been said. The move is still up to the manufacturer, the citizens having voiced their approval of the plan and ready to add their dollars to the movement if the manufacturer seems in an acceptable mood. The only word heard from the manufacturers is favorable toward a move in the near future. There is nothing about that to cause great stir in the local industrial camp, that does not mean that the industry is packed up and labeled by express for Albany-Decatur, neither does it mean that the plant has definitely decided not to come here. About the only move available from the cities' standpoint is to being, keep smiling and believing in the future and continue propaganda of the right sort for the time something may happen one of these fine mornings that will place Albany-Decatur in a position to occupy new industrial heights.

THE VALUE OF A THOUGHT TOWARD THE FUTURE

When the new bridge is finished what are we going to do with it? That question faces, or should face every citizen in these cities who is interested in the welfare of the cities.

Of course the new bridge is going to increase travel along the Bee Line route, but there is no guaranty that we are going to gain the real benefits from the opening of the highway unless we get out and go after the business ourselves. Albany-Decatur can best realize upon the advantages offered by the new bridge in showing the bridge to others. How is that to be done? Why not light the bridge with white way on either side, then come along the Bee Line route with the white way. Let the cities foot the bill for maintenance, it is reasonable to assume that the Alabama Power company will gladly furnish the material at a very low cost, perhaps no cost at all, if the cities will agree to pay for the lighting. Let this system of lighting extend from the other side of the river out to Fairview where the proposed route of the highway will again enter the old thoroughfare.

But how is this going to make trade when the lights are only burning at night and all the stores are closed at night? That might bother some of us. The city that advertises itself so well as will be seen by the lighting of the entire two cities is bound to aim some of the effects in the daytime. Surely it will encourage others to come into such a progressive center. People from Limestone county will enjoy coming over the new bridge; will enjoy being in so progressive a city during the evening. There is a good deal of worth in being talked favorably from the outside.

KIWANIS AND OTHERS TALK OF THE BENEFITS OF CLINIC

"I believe the clinic is the biggest thing the Kiwanis club has undertaken since I have been a member," stated a member of the Albany-Decatur-Kiwanis club yesterday afternoon. That is true in the eyes of Kiwanians and in the eyes of a Morgan county public.

There were some among us who viewed the clinic as a work outside of the realm of the Kiwanis, a work not worthy of a great deal of attention. That view was taken principally through ignorance of the worth of the health project.

Advice given by these three physicians in the past two days is alone worth more than the cost of the service, alone worth more than the trouble through which Kiwanians waded to make the clinic a success.

These physicians since coming here have taught a lesson in preventative medicine; they have taught people that there is danger even in feeling safe, that examination is the safest plan to follow. In other words, correct the trouble before it is started, then the chances are in your favor that it won't stop.

Dr. Solomon, talking before the Kiwanis club on Thursday, went into some detail of the work done in other cities. His story was a revelation to the men gathered there to greet him.

Morgan county will not soon forget what has been done for indigent children, it will not soon forget that the Kiwanis club is the agency which accomplished the work, nor will it forget that when a service is needed that the Kiwanis club can be called upon to render invaluable aid.

HOPPER WARNINGS AND THE SERIOUS- NESS IN THIS SECTION

J. C. Ford, county farm agent, has sent a warning to farmers of Morgan county telling them how to locate hoppers, newest cotton pest discovered in the cotton fields of the United States. Mr. Ford has offered every bit of available service and material to the Morgan farmer in the hope that the pest's attacks may be thwarted in this county. Reports of the cotton pest have been only scattering in Morgan county, yet as some farmers point out, the pest is very difficult to find and often fools the agriculturist into believing that his cotton is not well advanced. In reality, some claim, this stage is apparent at this time of the year only after the attack of the pest.

Whether the hopper is noticeable in activity in this county or not, it is a good safeguard to remember that an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure. It is hoped that the farmers will take advantage of Mr. Ford's warning and prepare their crops against the inroads of the hopper and the weevil.

No sooner had the farmer placed the weevil under control than the hopper turned up, now it's up to the farmer to protect himself from the latest edition of the boll weevil.

After all farming is just like any other business, when one thing is cured, another bobs up. The farmer should have no more cause to bury his face in his hands than the business man who has just seen things go wrong when he predicted that everything was going right. That's life and human nature for things to be on the opposite. There is nothing to fear if everybody fulfills the duty that is set in the eradication of the pest. The farmer will take the advice of experts and turn in another fine crop for Morgan county.

UNITED STATES Consul General Miller at Seoul, Korea, gives this interesting information about an American missionary of the Seventh Day Adventist church: The missionary caught a little Korean boy stealing apples from his orchard.

First threatening the boy's mother with prison for her son the good missionary ordered a nurse to bring acid and with it he burned, in Korean, the word "thief," on each of the boy's cheeks. The missionary's mark still there, and the missionary has settled with the boy's mother for $310 with a public apology.

THIS hurts missionary work in the east generally, as the story spreads. But it should not cause to be forgotten the innumerable kindnesses, self-sacrifice and devotion of missionaries of all churches.

By P. O. Davis

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 16—Special—With the program prepared the advanced plans have been made for the next annual meeting of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation which will be held in Auburn, Monday and Tuesday, August 2 and 3.

The program which has been announced by Edward A. O'Neal, president, is brief and all discussions will be confined to farm-bureau topics. In preparing the program, Mr. O'Neal said that the committee had in mind, first, a report of farm bureau work during the fiscal year just closed, and second, plans for the ensuing year. The farm bureau meeting will be held in connection with the annual short course for farm people which will take place in Auburn, August 1-6.

The complete farm bureau program follows:

Lutherans O. K. Play on Sunday

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 16—Asserting that "God takes no special delight in people that are bored," the Lutheran Missouri synod endorsed Sunday recreation today.

In a statement issued through the American Lutheran Publicity Bureau of New York City the press committee of the Missouri synod, the largest individual synod of the American Lutheran church upheld the action of St. John's Lutheran church of Philadelphia in not withdrawing its support from the sequel-centennial exposition.

The position of the Lutheran church, the statement read, "is the position of Jesus Christ, who said, 'The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath.'"

"No peculiar sanctity attaches to any day of the week. The New Testament knows no Sabbath. Sunday was selected by the early Christians as a day for public worship. Christians still accept that selection. But the requirements of worship do not include an all-day session in church. The remainder of the day is theirs. They may spend it in rest or wholesome recreation. The pace of modern life makes some relaxation imperative. Sunday has come to be the day when the majority of America can relax. The church has no right to demand laws and regulations that will make impossible every form of Sunday recreation. God takes no especial delight in people that are bored."

BETTER INFANT CARE CUTS DEATH RATE

Careful Attention to a Baby's Food and Dress, and Seeing That It Has Sunshine and Fresh Air, Have Worked Wonders.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

PERHAPS the most reassuring chapter in the history of medicine and hygiene relates to what has been done to promote the welfare of infancy. There is a particular appeal in doing something to make it safer for the babies. Not long ago Dr. Arthur Newsholme, of England, said some wise things along this line. Let us take his words as follows:

"In promoting the welfare and health of the mother and her child in the early years, one can most easily anticipate disease, and bring the work of hygiene out of the region of pathology and disease into that of positive attainment and enhancement of health. Satisfactory care of the mother during pregnancy and of the infant, by means within the reach of all, (including a regulated diet, fresh air and sunshine, avoidance of exposure to the infectious colds of adults, and other medical preventive measures), will prevent rickets and many serious ills of childhood."

"Maternal and child health are especially indicated in the prevention of two great scourges of humanity, tuberculosis and venereal diseases. No work for the mother and her child can have more than a fractional result which does not constantly aim at minimizing and eventually eliminating these two enemies of mankind."

"Evil environmental circumstances which cause excessive mortality, also cause illness and permanent deterioration of health in a vasty greater number of persons. In the battle of life there are always more retained and wounded than there are killed. There are those who contend that in a prolonged life we do not really live longer, but are merely longer in dying. To them we throw back the burden of proof of their assertion, and maintain that each advance in the civilized pursuit of health means not only a temporary salvation from death, but an enhancement of the general standard of life."

This is good sense. It must be admitted that there is little satisfaction in keeping alive for a few days only an unconscious person whose early death is inevitable.

But when we strive for conditions which make for infant welfare we are not merely prolonging for a few weeks a life which is to be snuffed out. As a matter of fact, we are building up into health and vigor a life which would pass away without these efforts.

By the application of the rules of simple hygiene there has been brought about the greatest difference in the world in the prospect of a child's living. Careful attention to the food, insistence upon fresh air every day and sunshine whenever it can be had, guarding against infections, proper housing and proper dress—in these simple ways we have reduced infant mortality from 250 per 1,000, to 60 or 70 per 1,000 in the first year of life.

When we can get every mother educated to the necessity of giving her child a hygienic life, we will be rewarded by even greater advancement in this field.

Answers to Health Queries

A. B. Q.—What should a boy weigh who is twenty-one years old and six feet one inch tall?

2.—Can a rupture be healed by wearing a truss?

A.—For his age and height he should weigh about 167 pounds.

2.—The wearing of a truss will relieve any pain and temporarily hold a rupture, but the only cure for adults is an operation.

A Reader. Q.—What is good for an enlarged abdomen?

2.—My gums are very white. What would that indicate?

A.—Perhaps gases are responsible for your trouble. Watch your diet and avoid constipation and see whether or not you notice results. Exercise should be helpful otherwise.

2.—Anemia often causes this condition. Build up your health in general and your blood supply will increase.

J. H. Q.—What should a girl weigh who is twenty-two years of age and five feet two inches tall?

2.—What causes phlegm in my throat which causes me to expectorate often?

A.—For her age and height she should weigh about 120 pounds.

2.—This is undoubtedly due to nasal catarrh. A good nose and throat spray would prove helpful in a condition of this kind. For other information send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally, if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. "BROKEN HEARTS OF HOLLYWOOD" with Louise Dresser is a Warner production of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Betsy Terrellinger and Hal O'Connell, movie aspirants in Hollywood, meet disheartening experiences. Marshall, reputed to be responsible for many of the "broken hearts of Hollywood," is attentive to Betsy, arousing Hal's jealous anger. Hal is seriously hurt. Betsy, vainly fighting to support him. Desperate, she offers a proposition to Marshall, noted screen villain, but he befriends her, giving her a part in his picture. Virginia Perry, ex-while star, now a failure, discovers that she is Betsy's mother, but doesn't reveal it for fear of blighting the girl's career.

Most of the work Betsy had done so far was preliminary and minor. Now, after two weeks of activity, the day was at hand when the first of the "big scenes" was to be shot, a scene in which the burden of the emotional work would fall upon Betsy.

The action—which was laid on the foggy banks of the Thames in London, of a misty night—showed an aristocratic young girl, in befriending a drunken derelict "sleeping it off" on a bench in the rain, discover that the creature is none other than her own long lost mother. Despite the wretched woman's degraded condition the fine young girl takes her to her bosom. The scene marked the emotional summit of the whole play.

It was a scene well calculated to try the skill of a seasoned and gifted actress; for one so callow as Betsy, only a miracle would give the required profundity. Nevertheless, out of deference to McLain, the director resolved to try with utmost patience and enthusiasm to wring Betsy to great heights. He read and reread the scene to her, and drilled and redrilled his conception of it into her, trying to infuse her with the proper approach. McLain, meantime, stood aside talking to Virginia. "You're looking bully, Virginia. Do you know, I've been wondering if the strange similarity of the story were fitting to the real story of your life has had an influence over you?"

Virginia colored so vividly, and moved away so quickly without replying, that McLain scratched his head in mystification. Thereafter, he fell to thinking deeply, and watching.

Ready to rehearse, the director sent while the electricians tried and trained their lights and all the other subordinates made nonchalant preparations for the actual grinding. But the call of "Camera" was a long, long time away, it quickly became apparent, after the rehearsal, when McLain, the producer, and the director alike exchanged depressed and hopeless looks over the inferior quality of Betsy's acting in her first chance at a really big scene.

Time after time the director, with consummate patience for one of his clan, put the girl through her paces; while Betsy grew more tired, more discouraged, and more scared at the realization of her inadequacy. The climax of the director's patience came the twelfth time the rehearsing of the scene reached its climax.

As Betsy, in colorless tones and with but a stiff display of emotion, exclaimed "Mother!" and thrust her arms out woodenly, the director leaped from his chair, shouted "Oh, HEAVEN!" at the top of his lungs, then fired his megaphone at a grinning electrician high on a steel ladder.

Betsy had by now reached an acute point of stage fright; the temperamental tantrum of the director scattered the last vestige of her hope, despite Virginia's whispered encouragement. But the director, after a brief confab with McLain, resolved upon one more try! he proceeded to show Betsy exactly how he wanted the scene played.

Betsy tried to watch him and mimic him and catch the spirit of his pantomime; but with the score of hardbitten onlookers, from prop head to continuity clerks, and with the accumulated consciousness of her responsibility, she made a sorry and wobbling figure standing there.

"Do it—do it!" He shook the glass roof with his shriek of "Mother!" and knocked the breath out of Virginia as he clapped her to his paunch.

TILLIE THE TOILER

Hartselle Drops A Trio of Tilts

Hartselle ball tossers have not been so fortunate in the last three starts. Hartselle dropped a pair to Merrimack Mills team of Huntsville 18-9 and 8-4, then dropped a game to Haleyville after an 11-inning toss up affair 5-3. The last game was to have been played against Falkville, but owing to some default in arrangements the Haleyville team came on to Hartselle where a team... was hastily rounded up and the game started. The improvised Hartselle outfit did will with the visitors in the 11 inning fracas following.

CONSIDERS SHE MADE WISE MOVE

When She Took Friends Advice and Tried the Great Herbal Remedy Known As Herb Juice

"I feel that I made a very wise move when I at last listened to the advice of one of my friends and started taking your wonder-herb extract known as Herb Juice, because it has certainly relieved me of a stubborn case of constipation and dizziness headaches of years standing," said Miss Clara Feucher who resides at 308 South High street, Belleville, Ill., when she called to see the special representative at Reis Drug Store very recently.

In further relating her story of her condition before she had taken the great herbal remedy Miss Feucher said, "For a number of years I have been a victim of the dreaded malady, constipation and from this badly constipated condition suffered a great deal from violent headaches which caused me to be very dizzy, nervous and irritable and was very restless at night. I tried all the different kinds of medicines and remedies that I could hear of, but without anything more than temporary relief. At last one day a friend of mine who had taken your great herb laxative insisted that I try it and said that it would do me good. I went straightway and got a bottle and before I had finished taking this great remedy I could see a decided change in my condition. I continued taking it and today I can truthfully say that I feel better in every respect than I have in years. My constipation has been entirely eliminated. I never suffer any more from those splitting headaches and I can now sleep the whole night through and arise in the mornings feeling physically fit to perform my daily tasks. I can't say enough in praise of this great remedy to justify the real genuine good it has done me, and I am truly glad to make this public statement in the hope that other sufferers may be induced to try it, because I am sure they will derive the same wonderful benefit from its use that I have."

THINK HAMLET'S GRAVE SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND

By International News Service
LONDON—The theory, that Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, died in Britain in the year 602, is advanced by the Rev. L. G. Hunt, Rector of Munsley, in a pamphlet published here.

Rev. Hunt bases his theory on an ancient stone discovered by him at Munsley, which, on submission to an expert, was declared to be inscribed "Hamlet Xethi 362 which if properly interpreted would imply that the person commemorated was a Christian. "Xethi" is a dialect form of "Jute," which is believed to be the traditional name of Jutland, where Hamlet's legendary prince lived.

Examinations for first, second and third grade teachers at Anniston are to be held there soon.

Black Sox Win From Visitors

Decatur Black Sox took an easy verdict from Fayetteville Red Sox yesterday afternoon at Malone Park 6-4. Bussey pitched steadily all the way, his team mates putting him in the lead from the start. A good crowd witnessed the game. Batteries for Decatur were: Bussey and Martin.

It was stated today that a Nashville team will probably be brought here to play next week, the date not having been announced.

WHAT BISHOP CANNON SAYS AS TO L. B. MUSGROVE'S POSITION AMONG THE PROHIBITION LEADERS

Was Influential at the Peace Conference for Prohibition in Mandated Territory

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., is chairman of the Temperance and Social Service Commission of the Southern Methodist church. He has for many years been the Southern Methodist church's immediate representative in the Anti-Saloon League. As such he has been in the very front as chairman of the Anti-Saloon League's legislative committee. If anybody knows Mr. Musgrove's value, he does. The following is a letter written by him to Rev. E. L. Crawford, presiding elder, Greensboro district, under date of June 19, 1926.

Washington, D. C.
June 19, 1926.

Rev. E. L. Crawford,
Greensboro, Ala.
Dear Bro. Crawford:

I have received your letter, in which you ask that I give you some statement of my knowledge of the activities of Hon. L. B. Musgrove in connection with National and International Prohibition. In reply I would say:

I have been intimately associated with Mr. Musgrove in Prohibition work for the past ten or fifteen years, both of us having been on the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League of America together for at least that long. He was appointed by the executive committee as chairman of the National Campaign committee for the Ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment, and was also elected by that campaign committee to be chairman of its executive committee. He gave freely of his time, ability and means to secure the passage and enforcement of National legislation to remove the scourge of the liquor traffic from the entire country.

In the winter of 1919, Mr. Musgrove accompanied me to Europe as a member of a commission to investigate conditions concerning alcoholism in Europe. We occupied the same room in the hotel, and Mr. Musgrove rendered great service in our investigations, and in the organization of the conference held on Alcoholism in Paris in the Spring of 1919. That conference presented its conclusions to the representatives of the various countries engaged in making the Versailles Treaty, and Mr. Musgrove was quite influential in securing the support of our American delegates for the insertion in the Treaty of the provision prohibiting the liquor traffic in mandated territory. I have reckoned him as one of the ablest and most dependable advocates of State, National and International Prohibition.

I am very glad indeed to pay this deserved tribute to the record of Mr. Musgrove in this cause which has been near to my heart all my life.

With best wishes, I am,
Yours sincerely,
(Signed) JAMES CANNON, Jr.
(Paid political adv. by Musgrove state committee.)

Pirates Regain Some of Their Lost Ground By Beating Giants; Reds Lose

Pittsburgh can be counted back in the running today after having successfully vanquished the Giants in the third of the New York series.

Kremer hurled for the Pirates, Kremer hurled a masterful game, stopping the Giants with four safeties. The final was 3-0.

While the Pirates were getting rid of the Giant jinx the Phils were doing away with the Reds by an 8-6 count. Hendrix used four pitchers in an effort to stop the clouting, but to no avail. The Phils led by Williams with four hits, hit safely 14 times.

The Pirate win and the Red loss places the Pirates one half game back of the Cards and three and one half games back of the Reds.

The Cards knocked Jess Petty out of the box to take the heavy end of an 11-5 verdict. The Cubs bunched hits to take the other National league tilt from Boston.

The Yank slump continued yesterday against the Tygers, the Cobblers taking three Yank hurlers for less than they are worth and winning by a 7-2 count. The teams were on even terms in the hitting, getting nine hits each. Babe Ruth got a single in four times at bat.

With things going as they are in the American, the race does not promise to be one-sided very long. The Yanks still lead by the comfortable margin of six and one half games, with the next five teams strung out clear into sixth place, all with a chance to hammer away at the New York lead. Detroit is resting in sixth place with an average of .500, just 60 points back of the A's now perched in second place.

The Indians and Red Sox divided a double header in the other American league activity. Cleveland took the first 4-2, while Boston copped the last 5-2.

Jack Delaney and Paul Berlenbach decided it was too wet to fight last night, not surprising in New York, or any other place where there is a place near enough for rum runners to land a few cases, but really it was the weather that stopped the light heavyweight title match. The two students of maul will tangle tonight, provided there is not continued wetness about the arena. Delaney is outweighed ten pounds by Berlenbach this fact was discovered last night when the two weighed in before the fight was postponed. Berlenbach and Delaney shook hands, Delaney smiling and saying "Best regards, Paul." Berlenbach in his high pitched voice replied, "You're looking fine Jack." A very friendly mien for two men about to commit assault and battery upon their separate anatomies.

Down in the Southern league the Barons continued to take a rest cure down at Memphis town. The Pels doffed their campaign caps to the Vols 7-6. Little Rock defeated Atlanta 6-3, while the Noogans copped another from the Bears 9-8 Bigelow hit in his 30th game in a
